

Professor Simon Hornblower FBA

Senior Research Fellow, All Souls College, and Professor of Classics and Ancient History, University of Oxford

My chief areas of research are: classical Greek historiography (esp. Herodotus and Thucydides); and historical texts considered as literature, and literary (esp. poetic) texts considered as history.

I have published a large-scale historical and literary commentary on Thucydides in three volumes (OUP 1991, 1996, 2008). My most recent monograph is Thucydides and Pindar; Historical Narrative and the World of Epinikian Poetry (2004), but in 2010 I published, again with OUP, a collection of essays, Thucydidean Themes. A fourth edition of my Greek World 479-323 BC was published at the beginning of 2011. In 2007 I co-edited, with Prof. Cathy Morgan of KCL (now Director of the British School at Athens), Pindar's Poetry, Patrons, and Festivals: From Archaic Greece to the Roman Empire (OUP), a collection of papers by experts on historical, literary, archaeological and anthropological aspects of Pindar and his world. Since 1979 I have been involved with the on-going Lexicon of Greek Personal Names, and in 2000 I co-edited with the late Elaine Matthews a book called Greek Personal Names: their Value as Evidence (OUP for the British Academy). Finally, I co-edited with Tony Spawforth the 3rd ed. (1996) of the Oxford Classical Dictionary, and a 4th edition, co-edited with Tony Spawforth and Esther Eidinow, was published in 2012.

In December 2013 I published an edition of and commentary on Herodotus book 5 in the 'green-and-yellow' series (Cambridge Greek and Latin Classics), and I am now working on Herodotus book 6 in the same series, to be co-authored with Christopher Pelling. In November 2013 I handed in to OUP the typescript of Lykophron's Alexandra: Greek text, Translation and Commentary, and this book should be published in 2015. I now have a contract with OUP for a follow-up monograph, to be called Lykophron's Alexandra and the Hellenistic World.

In Michaelmas 2011, I organized and co-chaired a series of graduate classes in Oxford on Herodotus book 6 with Chris Pelling; and in Michaelmas 2013 we ran another such series called The green-and-yellow Herodotus, at which all the speakers were editors of Herodotus volumes in the series Cambridge Greek and Latin Classics (see above).
