

All Souls College Seminar in Early Modern Intellectual History Michaelmas Term 2018

Conveners: DR DMITRI LEVITIN and SIR NOEL MALCOLM

All sessions will be held on Wednesdays, 5.00–6.45pm. With the exception of the first session, all will be in the Hovenden Room. Access is via the entrance to the College on the High Street – please ask at the porter’s lodge for further directions, or consult the information at <https://www.asc.ox.ac.uk/visiting-the-college>. All very welcome.

- 10 October MARK GOLDIE (Cambridge), ‘John Locke and America’
[Please note alternative venue: Seminar Room 3]
- 17 October ADAM HORSLEY (Exeter), ‘Persecutors, judges, and defendants: defining libertinage in early seventeenth-century France’
- 24 October JACQUELINE ROSE (St Andrews), ‘Secret and privy counsel in early modern England’
- 31 October PAUL LODGE (Oxford), ‘Leibniz’s Theodicy as religious therapy’
- 7 November SARA MIGLIETTI (Warburg Institute), ‘Contemplation, reflection, and love of God: new perspectives on Jean Bodin’s ethics and theology’
- 14 November CHARLES WOLFE (Ghent), ‘Montpellier vitalism and vital materialism’
- 21 November JOANNA WEINBERG (Oxford), ‘The archive of Constantijn L’Empereur (1591–1648): a microcosm of Christian Jewish scholarship in seventeenth-century Northern Europe’
- 28 November NOEL MALCOLM (All Souls College, Oxford), ‘Early modern ideas of religion as “imposture”: the case of Islam’