About All Souls College

A registered charity and one of the 39 constituent colleges of Oxford University, All Souls is renowned globally for its support of world class academic research, as well as intellectual engagement with the wider world.

We have a proud history too. Founded by King Henry VI and Henry Chichele, the Archbishop of Canterbury in 1438, to commemorate the victims of the Hundred Years' War, our past Fellows include some prominent figures, including Sir Christopher Wren, William Blackstone, William Gladstone, Lord Curzon and Lawrence of Arabia.

Today, nearly 600 years later, we are unique among Oxford colleges due to our distinct focus on supporting research and building connections between academia and public life. We have no undergraduate members but instead support a diverse community of academics ranging from those just starting their careers, mid-career postdoctoral researchers and those at the very top of their respective fields. Fellowships at All Souls are highly sought after and extremely competitive, with candidates undergoing a rigorous selection process.

The primary focus of the College is on promoting pure and applied research, as well as intellectual engagement with a wider world, with Fellows engaging in an array of academic disciplines, including history, literature, philosophy, law and science. We provide an intellectually stimulating environment where Fellows have the freedom to pursue their research interests independently while benefitting from interdisciplinary collaboration. While in the contemporary academic landscape, the College remains a beacon of excellence, attracting top scholars from around the globe.

With a rich history, distinguished Fellowship and unwavering commitment to academic rigour, the College continues to inspire and shape the minds of future generations of thinkers and leaders, making it a great place to work. As well as wonderful historical surroundings, our staff enjoy excellent benefits, including ongoing training and development. Together, they help to ensure the College remains a symbol of enduring scholarly tradition and innovation.

We look forward to receiving your application.

Health & Safety Advisor

Grade 6 (£35,681 – £45,212) pro rata

Part-time (2-2.5 days a week, flexible or 20 hours per week, flexible)

Between 9am and 5pm, or as agreed with the Facilities Director

What you will be doing

All Souls College has recently refreshed its Health & Safety management systems and put in place several new policies and procedures. As Health & Safety Adviser, you will oversee and further develop the college's health and safety systems, ensuring they remain compliant with legislation and reflect best practice. You will work with colleagues to carry out and review risk assessments, produce reports and action plans, and ensure that appropriate safety measures are in place across all areas of college activity.

You will advise on day-to-day health and safety matters, from accident investigations and incident reporting to fire safety and first aid provision. Working with the College's Fire Officer, you will develop and maintain fire evacuation strategies and ensure the college continues to meet its obligations under current regulations. You will also play a key role in training and awareness, helping to build a culture of continuous improvement through workshops, briefings and e-learning.

The role is varied and engaging, you may be advising a Head of Department one moment, working with an external consultant the next, and then preparing reports for termly Health and Safety Meetings. No two days will be the same, and your work will directly contribute to the wellbeing of everyone who studies, works or visits the college.

What you will need

We are looking for a confident professional with a NEBOSH Certificate in Occupational Health and Safety (Level 3 or above) and professional membership of IOSH. You should have a strong knowledge of current legislation and practical experience of conducting risk assessments, investigations and inspections.

Good communication skills are essential, as you will be working with a diverse range of people and advising at all levels. Being able to manage your own workload and being comfortable working independently while collaborating with colleagues, are key to this role.

It would be an advantage if you hold a NEBOSH Diploma and have experience of working within a higher education or similarly complex environment.

“There are excellent staff benefits. We are really well looked after.”

Helena Green, Catering
