

All Souls College Seminar in Early Modern Intellectual History Hilary Term 2018

Conveners: DR DMITRI LEVITIN and SIR NOEL MALCOLM

All sessions will be held on Mondays, 5.00–6.45pm, in the Hovenden Room; access is via the entrance to the College on the High Street – please ask at the porter’s lodge for further directions, or consult the information at <https://www.asc.ox.ac.uk/visiting-the-college>. All very welcome.

- 15 January*    RENÉE RAPHAEL (University of California, Irvine), ‘Mechanics in the margins: an anonymous annotator, eclectic reading, and Galileo's Two New Sciences’
- 22 January*    RICHARD SERJEANTSON (Trinity College, Cambridge), ‘Francis Bacon in Poland: for and against the “Great Instauration” in Second Reformation Europe’
- 29 January*    TIMOTHY TWINING (Caius College, Cambridge), ‘Richard Simon and the remaking of biblical criticism, c. 1665–1685’
- 5 February*    DANIEL GARBER (Princeton), ‘Novatores: negotiating novelty in early modern philosophy’
- 12 February*    DAVID LINES (Warwick), ‘Philosophical teaching in sixteenth-century Bologna’
- 19 February*    JOHN CHRISTIE (Oxford), ‘Enlightenment's Apocalypse: prophecy, providence and science in the work of Joseph Priestley’
- 26 February*    DIRK VAN MIERT (Utrecht), ‘The “Hairy War” (1640-1650) and the historicization of the Bible: the role of philology in a public debate on men wearing long hair in the Dutch Republic’
- 5 March*        DELPHINE BELLIS (Sarton Centre, Ghent), ‘Gassendi’s theory of vision: at the crossroads between Epicureanism and early modern empiricism’